

Martin Gray Wins Moneywise Top Pension Award

Date - 27th August 2009

Midas Capital Partners, the multi-asset manager encompassing the Midas and Miton fund ranges, announced today that the CF Miton Special Situations Portfolio, managed by Martin Gray, has been voted a winner in the Moneywise 2009 pension awards.

The fund, which won the Top Balanced Managed Fund category, was voted on by a panel of IFAs which included Tom McPhail, head of pensions research at Hargreaves Lansdown, Philip Pearson, partner of P&P Invest, Ian Porter, proposition director at Alexander Forbes Financial Services, and Nick McBreen of Worldwide Financial Planning.

David Thomas, business development director at Midas Capital Partners, said: "We are delighted to have received this accolade, especially as it is judged by a panel of IFAs. It is great to receive this recognition of our skill in both the fund management and pensions space particularly against the backdrop of the difficult market conditions we have been experiencing."

After compiling shortlists of providers with the strongest performance and overall offerings in each category, Moneywise, a consumer finance magazine, took performance data from Lipper to identify the top 20 funds in four sectors that are regularly used in pension investing. This gave them the best performing funds within a pension from which a winner and runner up were selected for each sector.
